Alternative Transportation Plan Update

Date

3/11/2015

Description

Public input on the draft Alternative Transportation Plan (ATP) Update document was solicited in February. An open house was held on February 12 with approximately 40 people in attendance. A front page article on the ATP Update was published in the February 19 edition of the Bloomington Sun Current newspaper. Public comments on the ATP Update were also solicited via an article in the City's February Briefing newsletter, the City's website, and through notices sent to the ATP Update focus group meetings invitees as well as anyone who previously contacted the City regarding the ATP Update. The draft ATP Update is available for review at:

The primary issue identified via public input was the plan to place a trail along the north and east shores of Bush Lake. Members of the Izaak Walton League and area residents expressed opposition to the shoreline trail adjacent to Izaak Walton Road. They recommend placing the trail only around the North Bay. A map of the proposed ATP system can be found on page 3-8 of the ATP Update document. Staff will review this matter with the PARC at the March 11 PARC meeting.

Following public input, a final draft of the ATP Update document will be compiled and then presented to Council for approval, probably in April, 2015.
